

Kevin currently works as the North American Mobility Marketing and Application Development Manager for Borealis Compounds, Inc. Previously Kevin spent 11 years as a senior materials engineer at Toyota and spent time at Collins & Aikman before that. He has worked with all kinds of interior and exterior automotive applications including headliners, IP systems, seating, bumpers, and cockpit area.

Kevin has a chemical engineering degree from the University of Detroit Mercy (2004) and has worked with SPE on various activities including ANTEC, the TPO conference, EAV show, and the Schoolcraft College programs.